

Cystos, Scorpion Spider

This hideous mutation is a gargantuan blend of spider, scorpion, and serpent. It has many forms of venom, but is most known for its delusional secretions which can impact its victims simply by having any part of it touching its victims skin. The impact causes extremely blurry vision and disorientation, often disabling the victims enough to easily trap even the most powerful of warriors.

Cystos has fed on much of the Forest of Delusions creatures, and now has taken to preying on travellers using the only trade route from Silverin to Vace City. The residents of Silverin would be most grateful to those who could take down the deadly creature.
